

SEEDing

Stronger Together

We are proud to introduce the six incredibly inspiring organizations selected for our first SEEDing Stronger Together cohort—all primed to achieve ever-greater outcomes through creative collaboration.

Roxbury, MA
The Cory Johnson Program for Post-Traumatic Healing is a spiritually-inspired, community-based, clinically-supported program offering a safe sacred space for the sharing of painful stories. The program increases awareness and understanding of trauma, providing relief from traumatic stress and delivering mental health supports.

New York, NY
NWNY is creating a more equal and prosperous world by promoting immigrant women in their life and career journeys. In 2022, NWNY assisted more than 1,850 immigrant women with education and workforce opportunities.

Boston, MA
BMA TenPoint, Inc. is building the capacity of Black churches and ministry leaders to support the empowerment of our youth and families and strengthen the health and well-being of their surrounding communities. It is also collaborating to define and implement a Black Church Agenda that effectively addresses the immediate challenges and opportunities of Black communities and churches across Boston.

New York, NY
Young Women of Color Health Advocacy Coalition (YWCHAC) provides tools and training that empower young women of color to advocate for themselves and others, and make sound decisions about their lives and their health.

Brooklyn, NY
The Alex House Project (TAHP) offers holistic, peer-led parenting training for young mothers and develops strategic community partnerships expanding access to higher education, jobs, career advancement, health services, housing, and more.

San Francisco, CA
Building pathways to brighter futures for women and girls in urban communities.

